

NEWS OF THE WEEK.
The Herald's correspondent of Monday says that Stonewall Jackson with 25,000 to 40,000 men and 40 pieces of artillery had removed to Pewtown, 7 miles from Winchester.

A rebel Lieutenant, (Rogers,) captured while visiting his family near Leesburg, declared that Jackson would be in Cumberland in 24 hours.

The Tribune's special says it is reported the rebels occupy Thornton and Chester Gaps in Burnside's rear, in force,—probably a canard.

Indications seemed to point to an early conflict. Burnside had sent off all the sick and wounded and made preparations to meet the rebels. There seemed some reason to expect an attack.

The Potomac army was divided into three corps, commanded by Sumner, Franklin and Cooper, a reserve corps to be organized for Sigel.

Our Government has made demands on England for damages done our commerce by the Alabama.

It is believed there will be no difficulty with France in relation to Gen. Butler's operations at New Orleans. Nor with Spain about the Blanche affair.

The rebel salt works on the southern coast have been nearly all destroyed.

A complete exchange of paroled prisoners has been effected, except those taken at Harper's Ferry. The footing up leaving 6,000 privates due the United States.

A fleet of iron-clad vessels is being built in English shipyards it is believed for the Southern Confederacy. It is said some of the English papers admit the fact, while others boast of it.—We feel apprehensive English neutrality will be found one of these days to have come to a head.

The affecting story about Burnside's weeping so like a child at the departure of McClellan, and the general shower of tears on the occasion, is spoiled as to its historical accuracy. Nothing of the kind. The story will only do now to grace a military romance.

Five murders were reported at Nashville on the 15th. Two of saloon keepers who refused to sell liquor to soldiers. Two of soldiers—cause unknown—and one of a negro.

A Harper's Ferry letter of Tuesday locates Jackson at Banker Hill, with 40,000 to 70,000 men the smaller number no doubt too large.

There was a concentration of Generals at St. Louis last night, preparatory to important movements.

A mail and baggage car was burned on the Great Western Railroad between Suspension Bridge and Detroit, on Tuesday night of last week. The loss to private persons and the Company was very heavy. The fire was first discovered in the mail matter and could not be subdued.

On the authority of the Evening Post, Gen. Cass has written to the President approving the removal of McClellan.

The indications are that something warlike is to be done in the South-west.

Charges of most audacious frauds are made against the contractors for printing the Treasury notes. They are allowed the highest price for everything, and are making use of the very meanest.

Look closely at your greenbacks.—A photographic counterfeit is described by the Democrat as having been detected at St. Louis, of $5 Treasury note.

It is said to be a little shorter than the genuine, on harsher paper, the shading of the engraving heavier and darker, and the signatures show through more plainly.

A Warrenton dispatch of Wednesday reported Gen. Sumner with two large army corps moving for some important point.—Jackson was welcome to get in the rear if he liked. It was supposed he was more likely making his way to the main body of the rebel army.

Prominent ship merchants urge upon the Secretaries of War and of the Navy the importance of closing Charleston harbor, at present the port of entry of all contraband trade, and the harbor out of which, if any, iron-clad vessels may be expected to issue to threaten the safety of Northern cities.

There is rumor from Washington that Charleston is to be attacked, and perhaps destroyed, if the rebels mean what they say, one of these fine days. If the reporting was left off till the work was done, how would that answer the purpose?

The patriotic Texan, Hon. A. G. Hamilton, has been appointed Military Governor of that State.

THE LATEST—THURSDAY.
Yesterday's dispatches give the following by way of the Herald's Warrenton correspondent:

This morning the 2d army corps, Gen. Sumner, moved to the front. They are probably destined for Fredericksburg, but may go to Culpeper Court House first, or at least near that point.—The other commands will move as rapidly as possible. The headquarters will move to-morrow.

Bridges over the Potomac creek and Rappahannock are being rebuilt. Dana, of the Tribune, has been appointed Assistant Secretary of War, vice Walcott resigned.

At a meeting of newspaper publishers, on the 19th, at Philadelphia, it was unanimously agreed to raise the price of subscription in view of the advance of materials.

It is said book publishers are about to take the same step.

NEW PROGRAMME.

An idea prevails with the "well informed" that our forces are to be more completely massed than heretofore, so as to proceed "on to Richmond" with greater celerity and effectiveness. "Richmond must fall, at every hazard, and speedily," though some points of our own may run a little risk for a time. Washington, however, we are told, to quiet our nerves, is to be kept safe.—Self preservation the first law, &c.

It is reported that Gen. Fremont is to be assigned to the command of the defenses of the Capitol. It would seem to the "civil eye" that McClellan is the man for that occasion. He never could keep away from Washington, and he loves to "settle down in the quiet" and entrench.

The "Path-finder" would find fitter employment in pushing out into the enemy's country.

PAROLED PRISONERS EXCHANGED.

It will be seen by our news column that all paroled prisoners, except those taken at Harper's Ferry, have been exchanged.—The news is said to have produced the greatest excitement and enthusiasm among our boys at camp Morton. The word that they are now free to march again to meet the enemies of their country, and would soon receive the orders to do so, seemed just the word they most longed to hear.

Garibaldi has written a letter to Victor Hugo, expressing high admiration for his genius, and promising to be present in London at the first representation of the dramatized form of "Les Miserables." But late letters from Turin strengthen the sad doubts whether he will ever see London again.

The merchants and financiers of New York are circulating a petition asking Congress to change the financial programme of the Government. They deprecate the present plan of irredeemable notes and temporary loans, and propose the issuing of coupon bonds in denominations of $25 to $5,000, to run 20 years at 4 per cent. interest, and to be made a legal tender. Then if notes of a smaller denomination be had, let them be made redeemable at the Sub-treasury. To our own apprehension the plan has a wholesome look, and there appears force in the arguments adduced in its favor by the petitioners.

Here is a nice piece of Democratic ethics. It is from a speech by that prince of traitor demagogues, Vallandigham, at a recent justification, at Cambridge City, over their late success:

"The railroads, the banks, the telegraph lines, the express companies, and another element that had of late defiled itself in the land—the Churches—were all arrayed against the people. The pure altars of Christianity were defiled, and the Disciples had buckled in the markets. The Churches had departed from the doctrines of Christ and him crucified, and taken up the Nigger and him glorified! There will be no Union, no peace, no hope, no country, until you drive out those who have defiled the Temple of the Savior of mankind, and restore the gospel in its purity. It is time to abandon the Abolition Churches. Refuse them support. It is time to speak out.

It transpires that Buell was anxious to add to his other blunders (if that's the word) the evacuation of Nashville, a calamity only prevented by the energy and patriotism of Gov. Johnson.

MARRIED.
LENNON, ROMIZER.—On the 15th inst., by Jacob Elzroth, Esq., at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. Edmond Lennon to Miss Lucinda Romizer, all of this place.

The big cake accompanying this notice was fine as big, sweet as fine, and was eaten with becoming gusto by the hungry typos, no mistake.

LETTER FROM THE ARMY.
TOWNSEND'S BRIGADE, KY., Nov. 14th, 1862.

Ends. JOURNAL. In accordance with my promise to you and many old acquaintances, I take a few moments to-night to drop you a line.

The 11th Ohio Regiment is divided into five parts, each part stationed at some bridge between Covington and Paris. My company, (C,) and a portion of company K, are here. This bridge is a beautiful structure, about 300 feet long and 80 feet high; the north end in Harrison and the south end in Bourbon county. At the north end there was formerly a large, long trestle work, some 500 feet long, but it is now filled with dirt. At the south end is a high stone abutment, from which a sentinel can discover the approach of an enemy at a great distance. About fifty yards below the bridge is the mouth of Townsend's Creek, and the Licking river. My command is divided into two parts, one on the north side of Townsend and the other on the south side.

The country around is rich and well cultivated, and the people generally wealthy. From Covington to Falmouth the country is miserably poor, stony and hilly, and I would not give cents for the whole of it if I were compelled to live there. But from Falmouth to Lexington, and the nearer Lexington the better, I never saw finer or better land. All the blessings of Nature have been unparagonably lavished on this region; yet the withering blight of the "sum of all villainies" has placed "the hand-writing on the wall," and man's best heritage is fast being despoiled by the "ruthless hand" that is raised to destroy the charter of our liberties. Indeed, if there be tears in Heaven, pious mothers and fathers look down and weep on beholding the actions of their degenerate and wicked sons.

Well might the orator say, "May God hide from me the day when the dying agonies of my country shall begin," for people must see and hear in order to appreciate the cancer and malice and spite that has been engendered by this paralytic war. Each party swears vengeance and extermination against the other. Not only this, but men and squads are forming all over the State, and are stealing everything they can get their hands on. Not a night passes but some one loses something by theft. Last night I took 20 men and went to a small town about four miles from camp, and caught eight horse thieves, and took thirteen horses from them. I took them to Covington and gave them to the Lieut. Col. of our regiment, who will see that they get justice.

My health is most excellent, with the exception of a severe cold, and the health of my company is improving.

But I must retire, as it is getting late. In my next I will give you our bill of fare, and our means and manner of cooking. For the present, good night.

Respectfully, Wm. D. STONE.

THANKSGIVING.

Governor's Proclamation.

To the People of Indiana:

The People of the State of Indiana are required to assemble in their respective churches and at their family altars, on Thursday, the 27th day of Nov. '62, to return thanks to Almighty God for the manifold blessings He has bestowed upon them during the past year, and to pray Him in His mercy to avert from our beloved country the evils by which it is now so deeply afflicted.

It is their duty humbly to acknowledge the many favors bestowed by His hand, and their entire dependence upon His Providence for deliverance from the evils by which they are suffering.

It is their duty to pray for the success of our armies; for the suppression of this wicked Rebellion and the preservation of our Government; that the lives of our brave soldiers may be spared, and that they be returned in safety to their homes; that the hearts of our people may be inspired with a perfect confidence in the ultimate success of a just cause; and that the minds of all men may be awakened to a clear comprehension of the mighty interests for which we are struggling, not only to ourselves, but to our posterity.

And they should especially pray that the Divine Will may not be thwarted by the people to provide for and protect the families of our gallant soldiers, and preserve them from all want and neglect; to cherish and comfort with sedulous care the orphans and broken-hearted widows and parents of such as have fallen in the field or perished by disease in the camp.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set [L. S.] my hand and affixed the Seal of the State, at Indianapolis, this 11th day of November, 1862.

OLIVER P. MORTON, Governor of Indiana.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

Departed this life, on the 13th September, 1862, at the residence of Mr. Moore, Germantown, Kentucky, deceased, was a young man, who had been in the army, and was received in the battle between the federal and rebel forces near Richmond, in that State, on the 30th of August; my son Robert Emmett Daly, 1st Sergeant, Company E, 6th Regiment, Indiana Volunteers, who was killed on the 24th day of November, 1862, a short distance from Eaton, Preble county, Ohio, whence he was removed by his parents to Randolph county, Indiana, on the 10th of September, 1862. Here he resided until the 20th of July last, when he died. His career was short, but brilliant. He lost his own life in trying to save that of his comrades, and in defence of that flag and that Constitution which I taught him, from his infancy, to revere. Like the hero he died, he lived for his country. He lived for his country he died. Unlike the "Irish Patriot," however, who fell a victim to British treachery and tyranny, through the instrumentality of the blood-stained No. 1, my son fell a victim to the treachery of his superiors, who led him into the hands of the enemy, and he was killed by their hands. Farewell, Robert! Farewell, my much loved child! I taught you how to live, I taught you how to die. You have faithfully fulfilled my last injunction to you, you have not swerved from the line of duty, you did not desert your flag. Farewell, a long, a sad farewell my noble boy, till we meet in the regions of eternal beatitude, which will shortly, perhaps, very shortly be the case. In the meantime, Requiescat in pace. Amen. GEORGE W. DALY.
